FIXED FOR HIM.

A Loving Wife Takes a Corn Knife to Bed With Her.

Auburn, Ky., May 3.—Geo. Morris, a farmer, who lives near this place, has been in the habit of going home drunk and abusing his wife and family. Yesterday afternoon he left home in a bad humor, and his wife, knowing that he would be drunk when he came home in the night, took a corn knife to bed with her. When he came home he was crazy drunk as usual, and commenced to beat her. She got out of bed and went to work with the knife, which was about 18 inches long and very heavy. She cut through his skull in four places, made a fearful gash on his face and almost cut one of his hands off at the wrist.

Morris is still alive, but the physicians say that he is bound to die. Mrs. Morris has not been arrested.

The Amount of Indemnity Sought of China.

Paris, May 1.—The foreign office has received a dispatch from Peking, announcing that M. Pichon, the French minister, presented today the report of the committee on indemnity. The amount China is to pay has been fixed at 1,365,000,000 francs. How it is proposed that the indemnity be distributed among the Powers is not set forth, but, as the dispatch does not mention The Hague, it is thought that the ministers are hopeful of being able to settle the proportion to be received by each power by discussion at Peking.

Civil War Death Record.

During the civil war 5,221 commissioned officers and 90,868 enlisted men were killed in action or died of wounds received in battle; 2,321 commissioned officers and 182,329 enlisted men died from disease or accident, making a total loss of 289,739 men. Deaths occurring after the men left the army are not included in these figures.

Springfield Man Killed.

About Fertility of Eggs.

To obtain the best results in fertility, the breeding stock should be well fed. Starved stock can never do its best in reproduction and no one ought to expect it. The length of time a male is placed with the females will also have something to do with the fertility of the eggs. At a test made at a Canadian Experiment Station the following results were obtained:

They separated ten laying hens from the male and placed the eggs in an incubator each day to test them. During the first four days 70 per cent. proved fertile, fifth day 61 per cent., sixth day 60 per cent., seventh day 49 per cent., eighth day 12 per cent., ninth day 2 per cent., tenth day all were infertile.

They then put a male with six laying hens which had not been with a male, and tested the eggs in the same way. They found 30 per cent. fertile on the third day; 42 per cent. on the fourth day; fifth day 50 per cent., sixth day 60 per cent., seventh day 70 per cent., eighth day 68 per cent., ninth day 70 per cent., and tenth day 74 per cent. It would seem, then, that nearly three-fourths of the eggs are fertile four days after the male is taken away, or a week after the male is put in. There would probably be some difference in the males, however, about that, and number of hens might have considerable influence. They also kept two lots, each containing five hens and five pullets, one with a male and the other without, from January 1st to September 1st, feeding and caring for them alike. Those with the male laid 959 eggs, while those without laid 972 eggs, a difference so small as to decide nothing, as it might be accidental.—American P. & H. Breeder.

To Preserve Eggs.

The American Egg Company opened its egg preserve at Sycamore, Ill., May 2, the only one of the kind in the United States. T. J. Riste, the inventor, for several years has been testing this method of preserving eggs and found it a success. The egg is put through two chemical processes, packed in barrels until ready to ship, then put in cases. Eggs can be kept any length of time and cannot be told from fresh eggs.

Bowling Green a Poultry Market.

Very few people have any adequate idea of the business that is done in this city in the poultry line, for it is something enormous and scatters thousands of dollars throughout the county. Two firms in this city during March shipped from this city by express alone twelve carloads of poultry. The cars averaged 16,000 pounds, and the poultry was paid for at the rate of 7½ cents per pound. Each carload, therefore, represents $1,200 paid to the poultry raisers. Besides the twelve cars by express, there were two sent by freight during the month, making in all fourteen carloads of poultry shipped out of this city by twofirms. These fourteen carloads cost the shippers $16,800.—Bowling Green Times-Journal.

White Belgian Hares.

Mr. Aug. D. Arnold, Dillsburg, Pa., who has given the American Fancier one of the finest fowls we have to-day, the Buff Leghorn, writes us that when he first introduced the White Belgian hare last September he put before the fanciers of this country something as honest and genuine as was ever brought before the public. He tells us that the White Belgian was examined at the late Madison Square Garden Show by some of the best experts in this country, and were pronounced the true article. He says that no one who sees them and knows what a Belgian or common white rabbit is, dares deny the fact that they are pure Belgian hares. Mr. Arnold says: "The question is often asked how they are made, what crosses were used, etc. They were not made at all, nor were any crosses used. They are the pure products of nature, and are to-day as nature gave them to us—a pure albino direct out of the rufous red hare. They came the same as the white rat, White mouse, White deer, White Wyandotte and the White Plymouth Rocks. No crosses were ever used to produce them. I have to-day a buck which came direct from high pedigree reds—a pure albino. No animal breeds more true than an albino. The White Belgian hare comes pure white every one in a thousand. I should think from the experience I have had with them. Dr. Platt told me at New York that he had only seen one before he saw mine, that one came in a large western rabbitry as an albino. I have a letter from a breeder who handles thousands of Belgians, and he says there will be a white one come ever now and then, but only one in several thousand. I have gathered my stock from several sources, including Belgium. A lot of them bred from a buck and three does that came from England, the only Whites I know of that ever came from there. I also have a few good specimens from California; all having the most correct type of the Belgian. If I did not think they were a true honest hare, I should not have brought them before the American fancier.—American Poultry and Home Breeder.

$225 For An Egg.

A single bird's egg was sold in London recently for $225. It is common for the eggs of rare birds to cost as much as a good horse. They are not bought for hatching them, but merely to adorn the museums of egg collectors.

The most expensive birds' eggs at present are those of the graceful frigate bird. These are laid two in number on a crude platform of sticks which serves as a nest. The eggs are so rare that naturalists differ as to their exact size and color. The egg sold here, which was claimed to be a genuine frigate egg, was pinky white in color. Another specimen, which brought $50, was grayish white with faint mottlings at the thick end.

The Andalusian.

The source from which this breed has sprung is wrapped in a mystery, but the highest authorities give it as certain that originally they came from Spain but that the present bird is undoubtedly the outcome of more recent crosses. However that may be, the Andalusian as we have it today is a very handsome variety and also very useful. The general plumage of this bird is of a bluish shade or perhaps slate color, and the feather edges are laced with black. The hackle and upper plumage should be very dark in shade in order to procure the fine contrast, and in some cases these portions are found perfectly black, which looks very well, but the general coloration is a deep purple, which should have that lovely lustre as this adds so much to the general beauty of the specimen. The wattles and comb are of fair proportion. The face is red, with white earlobes. The cock's head should taper, and the neck should be lengthy, the tail large and well carried, and the legs long. The shades of color of this bird vary a little, and sometimes a pale shade is seen, and occasionally a deep slaty blue.

There are likewise Pile Andalusian, (rare in America but common in England) and in these birds the general coloration is of a silver tint, very lovely to look upon. With regard to the point of size in these birds, if quality corresponds with size, there is no objection to an 8 or 9 pounder. Do not for one moment strive after size to the detriment of style and color. The ideal Andalusian is smart and sprightly in appearance, well blessed with graceful activity; high on the legs; tail close feathered and no roughness on the thighs, all these points of course, coupled with those we have before mentioned.

From all this it will be seen that this breed possesses many excellent points and is useful as well as ornamental. We do not for a moment say that it is "the" fowl for anyone and everyone, but certainly it has its recommendations for a good many fanciers, and since the organization of the American Blue Andalusian Club its many excellent points will be more advertised.

Clark County Egg Industry.

The egg industry is getting to be enormous in Clark county. As an evidence of this fact one firm shipped March 30 a carload of eggs that contained 11,400 dozen. April 6 they shipped another carload containing 13,520 dozen, or a total of 24,920 dozen in two weeks. Among this number were 1,100 dozen duck eggs and 400 dozen goose eggs. An average price of nine cents was paid for hen, fifteen for duck and forty cents for goose eggs. They will be shipped to Boston for cold storage.—Winchester Democrat.
